

Special News on Coronavirus Evaluation Service

URGENTCARETRAVEL TELEMEDICINE-BASED DRIVER CORONAVIRUS EVALUATION SERVICE

Drivers face the enormous challenge of delivering essential goods in these unsettling times, while also wondering how they can be evaluated and tested for coronavirus.

UrgentCareTravel, the medical clinic network located at Pilot and Flying J Travel Centers, is here to help the trucking industry, fleets and drivers.

We're excited to announce that today we've launched a telemedicine *Driver Coronavirus Evaluation Service.

By performing the initial evaluation via video (telemedicine), UrgentCareTravel is promoting the safety and well-being of the drivers, the workers at the Pilot and Flying J Travel Centers and the UrgentCareTravel clinic team by minimizing crowds at the clinic and surrounding area.

HOW CAN DRIVERS REQUEST AN EVALUATION SERVICE AT UCT CLINICS?

UrgentCareTravel is OPEN for business!

We are COMMITTED to providing the medical services truck drivers need every day.

Whereas many hospitals, medical facilities and clinics have stopped seeing patients for non-essential medical services, UCT is committed to the truck driver population and will continue to provide the services they need, including chronic care management, primary care services and DOT Physicals / drug screens.

COST OF THE TELEMEDICINE-BASED COVID-19 EVALUATION

The cost of the telemedicine-based Driver Coronavirus Evaluation Service will be $40. If the UrgentCareTravel Provider determines that the driver should come to the clinic for further evaluation and possible COVID-19 testing, the $40 will be applied to those costs.
